Welcome to the 2014 Festival which, I promise, will be our liveliest yet. There's a strong theme of dance running through our concerts this year. Whether jazz, folk, classical or even disco is your thing, we guarantee to get your toes tapping.

One hundred years ago Europe launched itself into a catastrophic conflict. To mark the First World War centenary, we recall the tragedy and loss as well as the spirit and valour in a special concert of war music through the centuries. Highlights include Battalia, Biber's 17th century evocation of the battlefield, and Richard Strauss' poignant masterpiece, Metamorphosen, written amidst the ruins of 1948 Berlin.

Perhaps most moving of all is the remarkable resilience and humour infusing the popular songs of the day. I believe that's how those soldiers would like to be remembered. Please join us to commemorate their experiences and celebrate their lives.

7PM MONDAY 11 AUGUST

Kosmos

● St Mary's Church

Sophisticated jazz glides magically into wild Gypsy fiddling, emotive Jewish music into hot-blooded tango, Arabic and Turkish improvisation into Greek melodies. Kosmos make extensive use of their own arrangements alongside vibrant new compositions, entrancing dance rhythms and soulful improvisation, all delivered with passion, panache and virtuoso technique.

Lunchtime concert at Norburton Hall

● Norburton Hall

Music in the shadow of war

George Butterworth, one of Britain's brightest musical hopes, was killed in action on the Somme. His 1911 song cycle A Shropshire Lad seems to foreshadow the devastation about to be unleashed on the world. Maurice Ravel completed his glorious Piano Trio after the outbreak of war in 1914, driven by 'insane heroic rage' before he enlisted for military service.

Damian Thantry baritone
Caroline Dowdle piano
David Juritz violin
Adrian Bradbury cello

Concert to include a picnic lunch platter.

7PM TUESDAY 12 AUGUST

An evening of jazz with David Gordon and Jacqui Dankworth

● St Mary's Church

David Gordon brings some very special friends to the festival. The legendary Jacqui Dankworth joins two of Britain's most exciting musicians, cellist Ben Davis and bassist Sandy Burnett, for an evening guaranteed to be both smoking hot and extremely cool.

David Gordon keyboards, Jacqui Dankworth singer;
Ben Davis cello, Sandy Burnett bass

7PM THURSDAY 14 AUGUST

Orchestral Concert

- St Mary's Church

Perspectives of war

Popular wartime songs sung by Claire Bradshaw contrast with an extraordinary 17th century evocation of war in Heinrich Biber's Battalia. Three reflective pieces express the sadness and loss of conflict: an ode to Rupert Brooke by Frederick Kelly, one of his pallbearers at Gallipoli; Ravel's Le Tombeau de Couperin for fallen friends; and Richard Strauss' late masterpiece Metamorphosen, his lament for the desolation of German culture.

7PM FRIDAY 15 AUGUST

Gala concert

- St Mary's Church

Shall we dance? A scintillating flute concerto by CPE Bach follows Handel's ebullient Concerto Grosso in A major.

And then the evening really takes off. Miloš Milivojevic brings his accordion to My Inner Disco while Craig Ogden performs 100 Greatest Dance Hits. Peter Hope's light-hearted Momentum Suite and Béla Bartók's Romanian Dances round off what is guaranteed to be a lively night.
